Healthy Meal Ideas

Choosing a better variety of meals will help ensure you obtain a good balance of nutrients and prevent your taste senses tiring.

Try to have breakfast, one main meal and one light meal in the day.

Here are a few healthy meal ideas for you to try.

Breakfast

- Wholegrain cereals are good choices. Suitable varieties include: bran flakes, fruit and fibre, no added sugar muesli, oat/wheat biscuit cereals, porridge with semi-skimmed or skimmed milk, low sugar granola.
- Wholegrain, granary or seeded breads are a good choice. Use a low fat monounsaturated based spread rather than butter, if needed. Try topping with grilled mushrooms or tomatoes, poached or scrambled eggs, baked beans, a thin scraping of jam or marmalade or low fat cheese spread.
- Crumpets and currant teacakes are also suitable alternatives.
- Small pot of low fat natural yoghurt and a handful of berries / 2-3 tablespoons fruit salad / stewed / tinned fruit in juice.

Light Meals

These could consist of:

2 slices of wholegrain, granary or seeded bread or 1 medium teacake (5") or 1 large or 2 small pitta bread or 4 wholemeal / wholegrain / rye crackers or 4 oatcakes or a wholemeal wrap.

Your choice of sandwich fillings or toast toppings could be a small portion of:

- Lean meat - ham, beef, pork, chicken, turkey.
- Fish - tuna, sardines, pilchards, salmon, mackerel.
- Low fat cheese such as Quark, Ricotta, light cream cheese, reduced fat cheddar, feta, light mozzarella.
- Cottage cheese - buy varieties with chives or pineapple in; or add olives or sundried tomatoes for extra taste.
- Egg - hard boiled or mashed with low calorie dressing or pepper and vinegar.
- Hummus.
- Other ideas for toast - baked beans, scrambled egg, tomatoes, grilled mushrooms.

Ideas for jacket/baked potato:

- Tuna with sweetcorn, chilli con carne, baked beans or cottage cheese.
- Add lots of salad to your sandwich or jacket potato.
For example, tomato, cucumber, lettuce, grated carrot, beetroot, cress, onions, radishes, sweetcorn, green/red peppers, reduced fat / calorie coleslaw.
- If you are trying to lose weight, try not to add butter, mayonnaise or cheese to your sandwich or jacket potato - especially if fillings are moist.

Soups:

Choose tomato, vegetable or pulse-based soups rather than cream based ones. Try homemade soups as they are lower in salt than tinned varieties.

Other light meal ideas:

- Sushi
- Hummus with pitta, vegetable sticks or falafel
- Salads (using dressing sparingly)
- Rice and pasta salads

Main Meals (including ready meals, take-aways and eating out)

Rice and noodles

- Chicken/pork/beef/tofu/quorn stir-fry with noodles or basmati rice and vegetables.
- Choose stir-fry dishes rather than deep fried dishes.
- Choose plain boiled rice or noodles rather than fried varieties.

Curries

- Chickpea/lentil/chicken curry with basmati rice or chapatti and salad.
- Choose drier dishes, such as biryanis, tandoori or tikka over dishes with high fat or creamy sauces, such as korma or masala.
- Choose plain boiled rice rather than pilau rice.
- Choose wholemeal chapattis or a small plain naan rather than parathas or garlic / filled naans.

Pizza and pasta

- Spaghetti bolognese (made with lean meat or quorn) with added mushrooms and peppers.
- Salmon and broccoli or tuna and sweetcorn pasta bake with low fat white sauce (made with skimmed or semi-skimmed milk).
- For pizzas, choose a thin crust with lean meat or vegetable toppings

Meat and fish

- Grilled or baked fish with new potatoes and vegetables or salad.
- Chicken portion (without skin), jacket potato and large portion of vegetables.
- Stew, casserole, or cottage pie with vegetables
- Grilled fish fingers or sausages, mashed potato or potato wedges and beans.
- Rice and peas (black-eyed, pigeon, kidney beans) with chicken or lean mutton and salad or vegetables.

Meat-free meals

- Mixed bean chilli and basmati rice.
- Spanish omelette with vegetables or salad.
- Cous cous and vegetable stew.
- Lentil and vegetable hotpot.
- Bean Burger with oven cooked sweet potato wedges.
- Aubergine Bake with salad.
- Stir-fry with vegetables, tempeh, quorn or tofu.

Eating out / Takeaways

Food in restaurants and takeaways tend to be higher in fat and salt than homemade food. However, it is fine have takeaways and eat out occasionally.

Try these tips;

- Choose soup, salad, bruschetta as starters rather than nachos, garlic bread, poppadums or prawn crackers.
- Just have one source of carbohydrate per meal and request extra vegetables or salads.
- If you want a pudding, have a carbohydrate free main meal or reduce the amount of carbohydrate at the main meal and share a pudding.

Ready Meals

Ready meals can be useful occasionally if you are short on time to cook a meal. However, they can be high in fat and salt and lack essential vitamins and minerals if vegetables are not included. Improve the balance of the meal by adding some extra vegetables or salad.

It is important to check the label before buying ready meals. Aim to choose the healthy option/low fat ranges but beware they can sometimes just be smaller portions of the ordinary high fat/calorie versions.

Tip - If you have a freezer, try cooking several portions of meals such as chilli, cottage pie, pasta sauce etc. Freeze in portions for home made ready meals which are healthier and cheaper.

Flavourings and Sauces and Alternatives to Salt

- Try pepper, herbs, garlic, spices, mustard, mint sauce or white sauce (for example bread, parsley or béchamel sauce made with skimmed or semi-skimmed milk).
- Certain types of relish, chutneys and pickles can be used in small quantities however they can be high in salt or sugar therefore use sparingly.
- Oil-free dressings, such as lemon juice and vinegar, or shop bought dressings providing less than 20kcal per serving (check the label) can also be added to salads.
- Watch out for ready made sauces, cheesy and creamy ones are likely to be high in fat. Try making your own lower fat version with skimmed milk or a vegetable base such as tomatoes.

Suppers or Snacks

- Fresh fruit, for example: 1 apple, orange, pear or banana.
- A small handful of dried fruit such as raisins or apricots.
- A slice of granary or multigrain bread / toast or 2 ryvitas / high fibre crackers or 2-3 oatcakes with topping such as low fat cheese spread, hummus or salsa.
- 2 small plain biscuits such as Rich Tea or Garibaldi or 1 digestive biscuit.
- A small scone, currant teacake, toasted muffin or crumpet with low fat spread.
- A small pot of healthy option, light, virtually fat free or low calorie yoghurt.
- Celery, cucumber, carrot or pepper sticks with a low fat dip e.g. tomato salsa.

If you are trying to lose weight you may want to think about cutting out supper/snacks altogether to reduce the amount of calories you eat per day. A warm drink may be adequate to keep you going until the next meal or before you go to bed.

Why not try:

- Peppermint, green or herbal teas.
- Low calorie hot chocolate drinks
- Instant Cup Soups that are low calorie (40-60Kcal per mug).

Puddings / Desserts

If you enjoy puddings it is fine to have them sometimes. However if you are trying to lose weight think about how often you are having them.

Healthier Options could include:

- Custards or yoghurts that are 'light' or 'diet' or alternatively 1 small scoop of plain ice cream.
- Reduce the amount of sugar used in crumbles or in fruit compotes by using cinnamon and nutmeg to add flavour instead. Sweetener can be used as an alternative to sugar.
- Sugar free jelly with added fruit.
- Low fat, sugar free mousse.
- Tinned fruit in juice (not syrup).
