You are receiving this leaflet because you have been referred to The Acute Frailty Team.

The Acute Frailty Team work together to improve the quality of life for frail adults living in Calderdale and Huddersfield.

Our team recognise everyone has different expectations, hopes, fears, strengths and abilities, as well as different levels and types of support and needs.

The aim of the Acute Frailty Team is to provide a comprehensive holistic assessment of your needs.

We will discuss all aspects of your medical history including your current reason for being admitted to hospital. We will address any concerns you may have with either yourself or your family. Including any difficulties you are experiencing with mobility, daily activities and your social circumstances.

With your consent we will talk to your carers, family and friends. We will discuss how you are managing at home and signpost you to support and available services to help you in the future.
What is frailty?

There is no single definition of frailty, but most people recognise that it is a state of increased vulnerability to adverse health outcomes. Older people living with frailty are less able to adapt to stressors such as acute illness, trauma or even social conditions.

It is important that we identify frail patients and give you the right care in hospital and at home to ensure that you live well with frailty and avoid any of the known risks. This matters because admission to hospital can be disruptive and can bring its own problems for someone who is showing signs of frailty.

How can I be referred to the Acute Frailty Team?

If you are identified as frail on admission to Emergency Department (ED) you will be referred to the Acute Frailty Team.

The working hours for the Acute Frailty Team are Monday to Sunday, 8am until midnight. We aim to see you within the first hour of your arrival to ED depending upon your medical status and any pending investigations you may be having.

The Same Day Emergency Care Unit

The Same Day Emergency Care Unit (SDEC) is an extension of the emergency department. The unit provides specialist care which focuses on providing a safe, timely discharge following a comprehensive assessment on the same day.

The Acute Frailty Team work closely with the advanced clinical practitioners and geriatricians to decide whether an admission to hospital is required, or if alternative support such as social care, medical intervention and rehabilitation can be provided in the community.

Our team

We are a specialist multi-disciplinary team made up of:

- Consultant Geriatricians

What will happen when you are referred to the Acute Frailty Team?

A holistic assessment will be commenced by the most appropriate clinician from the team; you may be seen by more than one member of the team dependent on your needs. You may also have some medical tests depending on your reason for attendance.

Our aim is for you to go home as soon as you are medically fit to do so. If you require more support at home, then this will be something we will review and if necessary put in place.
While you are with us we will be promoting your independence by ensuring you are up and dressed, encouraging you to mobilise as much as possible. We would like you to be dressed in day wear during the day with appropriate footwear on. We need to know all about you, so it is important that you share with us how you or your relative or carer is managing prior to coming to hospital.

We will also aim to provide your care at the right time in the right place. This may mean some recovery is completed at home or in another care facility.

Final Thought....
A hospital stay itself can trigger a crisis. Please consider that at times hospitals are not the most appropriate or safe place for a frail older patient.
